S
Ralph Schoenman, a Director of the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation in London, has a new scheme to blow up a section of one of the oil pipelines running through the Arab League countries. Schoenman's reasoning is that both the Israeli and Arab peoples are good but their governments are bad. Blowing up the pipeline would be a blow to the Arab governments, and Soviet support of those governments would encourage the Israeli and Arab peoples to wage revolution and civil war against their governments. Schoenman argued that this scheme was consistent with Trotskyist principles. Jordan expressed his opposition to Schoenman's plan.
